

Diversity and sustainability

The Arabic-speaking community is learning about sustainable living through a Macarthur Diversity Services initiative.

MACARTHUR Diversity Services is encouraging members of the ethnic community to stand up and be counted when it comes to sustainable living.

The service has established a sustainability project to promote awareness, knowledge and understanding among specific ethnic communities.

Educational workshops will be held in community languages for people from Arabic, Vietnamese, Tongan and Filipino backgrounds.

The Arabic workshops have already started. Vietnamese, Tongan and Filipino sessions will follow at a later date.

The seven workshop sessions will focus on energy and water conservation, recycling and waste minimisation, sustainable gardening, composting and worm farming.

The sessions will run every Thursday for seven weeks during the school term, from 10am to noon, at Macarthur Diversity Services, Level 8, 138 Queen St, Campbelltown.
