A celebration of cultural diversity

MACARTHUR Diversity Services is helping people express themselves artistically through an art exhibition.

The Celebrating Diversity exhibition will be held at Campbelltown Arts Centre from next Tuesday to Thursday, March 11, to showcase artworks from migrant and refugee communities in the Campbelltown area.

Services family settlement worker Sana Al-Ahmar said works by the group participants would be featured at the exhibition.

"It showcases relationships of old and new life as well as loss and discovery which have become a major part of the migrant and refugee experience," she said.

"The goal of this exhibition is to increase awareness of the artistic work undertaken by migrants and refugees living in the area.

"The launch will mark an important milestone for many of the artists and their communities who represent various age groups and at least 40 different nationalities."

The exhibition will feature quilting, photography, drawing and multimedia installations.

It is sponsored by Campbelltown Council
